A Japanese Dinner.

He who does not like the way the Japanese cook fish must be hard to please. They are better fish cooks than the French. The Japanese waters are very prolific, and the natives seem to have learned in cooking to preserve the inherent flavor of the fish, while their sauces are very simple. And as for eels, as they are cooked at the kangawana, a tea-house in Tokyo, he who has tasted them has established a standard in his mind by which to judge other eels.

Seaweed we had, too, thin as paper, and crisp. It is the weed of the sea that is left on the rocks and scraped from them by the fisher women with shells and then dried in the sun. It is eaten as a relish and has a delicate flavor, suggesting cinnamon.

Rice we had in abundance. It was served from a bucket (not unlike ours, but not quite so deep) of unpainted white pine, with a little wooden shovel somewhat like those our children use in playing at the seashore. Our rice bowls were filled again and yet again and when we covered our bowls it meant we had finished dinner. I have seen the Japanese look with indifference at a fish cooked in a way that made my mouth fairly water with desire, but when they are served with rice it receives their immediate attention.—Harper's Magazine.

Napoleon Was a Dandy.

It is pleasant to learn, if one has Napoleon I on the hero list, that he had very dandy habits in personal matters; that he was fastidiously clean in his person, according to an article in a French contemporary, and poured eau de Cologne into the water he washed in, then sponged his head with perfume and finally poured the remainder of the contents of the flask over the neck and shoulders. He was also extravagantly fond of clean linen and during his campaigns had relays of 1 sent to different places. In those days it did not cost a farm to have "starched things" laundered, for, in account with a famous laundress in Paris, the emperor's "linen" for one "wash" amounted to 386 pieces and cost only a trifle over $20.

This strikes an American as very reasonable. But his majesty never wore any article but once, and as he always undressed himself without aid from his valet his garments were literally "cast" to the four corners of the room. Napoleon's bill for eau de Cologne, however, exceeded the washer-woman's by a large majority. It is a relief to learn that the Little Corporal was so much a dandy. Some of his predecessors in the Tuilleries were not blessed with such excellent habits, if history is to be relied upon.

James Whitecomb Riley's Joke.

James Whitecomb Riley and Nye were a peculiar pair. They were everlastingly playing practical jokes.

I remember when we were riding together in the smoking compartment between Columbus and Cincinnati. Mr. Nye was a great smoker, and Mr. Riley did not dislike tobacco. An old farmer came over to Mr. Nye and said: "Are you Mr. Riley? I heard you was on the train."

"No, I am not Mr. Riley. He is over there."

"I knew his father, and I would like to speak with him."

"Oh, speak with him, yes. But he is deaf, and you want to speak loud."

So the farmer went over to him and said in a loud voice:

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Er—what?"

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"What did you say?"

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Riley, yes."

"I knew your father."

"No bother."

"I knew your father."

"What?"

"I knew your father."

"Oh, so did I!"

And in a few moments the farmer heard him talking in an ordinary tone of voice.—Saturday Evening Post.

Two Ladies of Fashion Meet.

A family living in a North Side flat welcomed a new housemaid last week. The girl had just come from Michigan, and her appearance was prepossessing. Soon after her advent it was discovered that she was inclined to treat the family with a patronizing air.

"Mary, you must do better, or I shall have to find some one to take your place," the mistress remarked the other morning.

"I don't allow any one to speak to me that way," replied Mary, with a toss of her head. "I'm just as good as you are, and I want you to know it."

Mary flounced out of the room and returned in two minutes with the weekly paper from her town. Among the social items was the following:

"Miss Mary Hanson has gone to Chicago to spend the winter. Miss Hanson is an acknowledged belle in the leading circles of Sawdust Creek."

Mary waited until her employer had had time to read the "personal," and then she said with withering scorn:

"As I have always been accustomed to going with the best in my town and as I don't believe you ever have your name on the society page of the Sunday papers I guess I can't afford to stay with you."

The North Side woman declared the dullest incident closed.—Chicago Inter-Ocean

FRIDAY JUNE 8, 1900.

SHADOWS OF EVENTS

There are times when we are impressed with what is said regarding events predicted to occur in the future—that is, coming events cast their shadows before, in what is said respecting them. When the writer read the address made and published by Senator Chandler and others who participated in making it last November, to the people of New Hampshire, he was impressed with the truth of the statements and predictions made about the future action of Congress in the matter of trusts, which caused a careful reading of the language used and statements made.

The JOURNAL made some comments upon what was said at the time it came to hand regarding the probable truth of the statements the address contained. Congress has convened and acted since the address was made upon the question of trusts, and it may give some light about the truth of coming events casting their shadows before, to repeat at this time some of the statements made in the address. The following extracts are given.

"The undersigned Republicans solicit your co-operation in efforts within the party to obtain: The statutory prohibition of free passes on railroads; the discontinuance of the collection for alleged campaign purposes of large sums of money from office-holders, treasurers of railroads and other sources, and the promotion of honest election method. The suppression of evils arising from trusts."

Under the head of trusts the address advocates the universal application in the State of the principle of unrestricted competition, which is the life of trade and the basis of all prosperity in society, and the election of members of the legislature and of congress who will enforce this principle. The address states its convention will readily enough denounce trusts and declare for competition. "The danger is that the cause will be betrayed by representatives and senators in State legislatures and in the national congress, so that extraordinary pains must be taken by the people to stand against such betrayals."

The appeal concludes. "The undersigned believe that the neglect by Republicans to pursue earnestly and in good faith the objects named above will endanger Republican ascendancy in the State and nation, while in the sincere and effective pursuit of those, State and national victory in 1900 will be achieved."

It will seem very much to those who observed the shadows that they truly represented coming events, more especially "The danger is that the cause will be betrayed by representatives and senators in the national congress." Could there have been a more complete betrayal of the people in the matter of trusts than was made in congress?

The first fraud there was attempted by the rich man's congress upon the people regarding trusts was the effort made in the house to pass an amendment to the constitution conferring upon that body the exclusive right to legislate upon the question of trusts, which would have done more, by depriving the States of the right to legislate on the subject, to impair the country than any measure that could do.

The amendment offered was beaten by a minority in that body because it requires a two-thirds vote to pass an amendment to the Constitution, which the Republican majority did not have, or it would have passed the lower house whose members are, it is possible, more subservient to trusts than Senators. The bill introduced into the House in the last days of the session, to make a pretense of fidelity to the cause of the people, was put through on the double quick, after the Republican majority had given evidence of their complete subservience to trusts during the session, by doing what evil their promoters required to be done by that body.

The bill has proven to be a disappointment to the fraudulent purpose of the Republican majority in the House by being defeated in the Senate. The bill, when it made an appearance in the Senate, was immediately taken up by the minority of the Senate, who favor the people, and placed on the calendar for such action as the majority in the Senate would permit to its passage. The minority Senators insisted upon its passage at the present session of Congress by argument, declaring that the people were entitled to relief in some form against trusts.

In these arguments the minority were so persistent that certain of the majority members became angry, notably Senator Hanna. A motion was made to refer the bill to the Judiciary committee, which included its defeat for all time. The motion was opposed by the minority on the ground that a reference of the bill to the committee would be its death, which was charged to be the intention of the majority. The necessity of the Republican party for trust money for campaign uses was entered upon and given as a reason by the minority for defeating the bill, which was resented by Hanna, till he became very angry on the floor of the Senate, and indulged his anger to the extent that gave to his effort a character representing weakness.

The motion was finally reached and a vote taken, which resulted as expected by the minority, as the trust majority voted to refer the bill to the committee, which was its defeat and the people are where Senator Chandler, in effect, said they would be last November, in the hands of the trusts. Conventions can declare and resolve, but it remains to procure relief from Congress, which the Senate was equal to saying would not be procured for the people.

The JOURNAL last November said in connection with a review of the address that relief to the people would mean a dissolution of the Republican party, as the trusts would abandon it if relief was given to the people against them, and there is no class of men better informed upon the fact of dissolution than the majority in Congress.

Weekly Crop Bulletin

CUNSON, Nev., June 5, 1900.

Exceptionally fine growing weather prevailed throughout the State during the past week and all crops made rapid growth. Light, and in a few localities, heavy, frosts occurred on the mornings of May 28th and 29th, but no damage of any consequence is reported. During the past two weeks the reports of correspondents have been very favorable and indicate a very promising outlook for good crops in all sections of the State.

The harvesting of wheat, barley, oats and the second crop of alfalfa is progressing in Lincoln county. Alfalfa is blooming in the eastern, central and western sections and will be ready to cut in about ten days. Corn, potatoes and garden truck are in excellent condition and growing nicely. The ranges are the best in years and livestock is in fine condition. The outlook for fruit is very good, especially apples, cherries and plums.

Mr. Cameron is a young man of exceptional ability, and Nevada need entertain no fear that he will be a discredit to the Battle Born State.

No Joint Railroad Between
Utah and Lower California.

Special to the JOURNAL.

NEW YORK, June 7.—There will be no joint Santa Fe-Southern Pacific line between Ogden and lower California nor is any railroad in the interest of these two big systems contemplated between Utah or Nevada or any part of California. This denial came from a man who is informed of the future movements of the Santa Fe. One of the roads which Huntington fears the Santa Fe will acquire and extend, is the Palisade & Bureka.

The Situation in China
Grows Very Critical.

Special to the JOURNAL.

PEKING, June 7.—The situation here grows more desperate hourly. A thousand marines are guarding the foreign legations. Russia and Japan are watching each other like cats and the belief is stronger than ever among the other foreigners that the two governments are ready to spring at each other's throats to battle for supremacy in the Orient.

The Boers Declare
They Will Never Submit.

Special to the JOURNAL.

PRETORIA, June 7.—President Kruger is located in a private car with Secretary Reitz at Machadorp station, 50 miles east of Pretoria. In official interviews both declared that the Transvaal would never submit as long as 500 Burghers were alive in the territory. A merciless guerilla warfare is to be maintained over an enormous area.

Bloodshed Imminent.

Special to the JOURNAL.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Chinese Minister Wing Ling Fang has received a message from Consul How You at San Francisco that bloodshed was probable in Chinatown unless the rigid quarantine regulations were done away with. The minister was informed that Governor Gage was making a thorough investigation and would probably act tomorrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—The feeling against the Health Board is very bitter and it would not be surprising if sensational developments result shortly.

A Petition to Congress Prepared.

Special to the JOURNAL.

MANILA, June 7.—The Katipunan society, the secret order which instigated all the revolts against the Spanish rule, has prepared a petition to the American Congress stating that that the entire archipelago is secretly supporting the insurgents and that annexation is impossible and calling for independence with American protection.

BIG PROJECT IS IN VIEW

Rumor That a Beet Sugar Factory Will be Established in Reno.

Yesterday a rumor reached our ears to the effect that an English syndicate had an agent in our city looking into—not our mining and mineral lands, but the adaptability of our soil for raising sugar beets.

The gentleman was hunted up, and seemed averse to shedding any light upon the why and wherefore of his visit. He did say, though, that an English syndicate sent him to this State to pass an opinion on the vast tracts of arid land so much talked about.

The Englishmen have lots of capital to back up any proposition of this character, so from a financial standpoint nothing is lacking.

To buy up all the land possible, irrigate it by means of electrical pumps and artesian wells, an immense factory and refinery run by electricity are some of the plans in view.

The sugar beet cultivation has long agitated a few of Nevada's denizens, and now to have a foreign company steal a march on us is pathetic. Yet it will infuse new life in arid districts and help Nevada in her struggle for recognition as a prosperous State.

We Stand Corrected.

CARSON CITY, Nevada, June 4, 1900.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Dear Sir: Sunday's JOURNAL refers to Henry A. Butters as a wealthy Englishman. Mr. Butters came to Oakland, California, in 1861, a year after I did, and we lived neighbors and attended school together. He was born in Haverhill, Massachusetts, and is a Yankee of Yankees. He went to South Africa with his brother, Charles Butters, who was one of the five men confined at Pretoria on account of the Jamison raid. The two brothers got wealthy there. On the question of the Boer war, they side strongly with the Brits, and claim that under a benign government they could have made some money.

Charles Butters put in the levigation plants which reduce the ore of the Rand. He tried to introduce his methods on the Comstock before going to Africa, but the managers of the Comstock mines would hardly listen to him. He is now engaged in the business of reducing ores, buying tailings, etc., throughout the west, with offices at Salt Lake and San Francisco.

He has purchased the immense pile of tailings belonging to the Union Mill & Mining company, on the Comstock, but I understand that he will not begin their reduction this year, although it is his intention to soon begin the work of constructing a proper plant. They are both self-made men, and don't believe there was any such word as fail in contemplation of their operations. Charles Butters is a graduate of the University of California, and he had to work and pay his own way through.

Yours truly,
ALFRED CHAZZ.

Engine House Bell Arrived.

Another good word for the Reno Fire Department. A new bell arrived Thursday morning, much to the elation of the fire brigade.

The bell is a thing of beauty, and its warning note can be heard all over our township when it is hung ready for action.

The bell weighs 1465 pounds, and was cast in San Francisco. Next in order is the fire alarm system. Fourth of July bombs and fire-crackers will then have no terrors for timid citizens.

Public School Notes.

Examinations are taxing the brains of the public school pupils. The hot spell of weather causes a restless spirit to crop out in the majority of these young students.

The seniors are busily engaged in their preparations for the High School commencement exercises.

"Junkett Trips."

We are given to understand that today is the time set for a joint meeting of San Francisco and Reno delegates, on the Tahoe water steal case. It will be a sort of way-up "junkett" trip for both committees, and we wouldn't like to stake a fortune on the final decisions.

MINES AND MINING

Items About Nevada's Leading Industry Clipped From Exchanges.

W. E. Sharon has been elected superintendent of the Crown Point mine at Gold Hill.

The mines at Galena district, Lander county, are to be inspected in the interest of Boston capital.

Ore shipments from Eureka county last week aggregated 108 tons, and those from White Pine 72 tons.

The Dispatch says Olinghouse has produced $6,700 in the past two months and the ore production is just beginning.

Miners employed at New Pass, Lander county, light fires nightly on the mountain peaks to notify their families that all is well at the mines.

The Comstock companies have received bids upon their new machinery and it is expected that some of the motors will be delivered within the next two months.

W. J. Kelly, a mining promoter of note, who, for a year, has been negotiating the sale of the Bluestone copper mines four miles from Yerington, Lyon county, has just closed the deal for over $100,000.

"Not Dead, but Sleeping."

Sorrowing friends gathered in the Episcopal church yesterday afternoon to attend the sad funeral of Bessie Rousseau.

The white casket was borne by six pall bearers—classmates of the dead girl.

It seemed not like a funeral—there was the sweet scent from myriads of flowers, and touching music; assembled relatives and friends could not realize that spirituelle Bessie Rousseau had left for all times to come.

The simple service of the Episcopal church appealed to all present and a new hope, a strong faith sprang up in stricken hearts as that soul lifting lesson from the First Epistle of Saint Paul was delivered—and, why grieve, fond mother, dear grandmother, "Forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

BREVITIES.

Remember the free show at the corner of Sierra and Second streets this evening.

The Ladies' Aid society have already raised $250 towards the M. E. Church fund, and are making preparations to swell the sum by a big bazaar sometime this summer.

Five flats loaded with round and squared poles are in the yards awaiting shipment to Virginia City. The setting of poles and stringing of wires is proceeding rapidly from Floriston to the Comstock.

Card Carnival.

The east end of the Southern Pacific freight depot presented a motley assemblage of Indians yesterday—all day long. Four separate games were in progress at the same time.

Back games and squaw circles, all eagerly betting their divils as they thumbed the spotted "devil card."

Delegation Expected.

Tuesday the twelfth of June is the day when the Republican delegation from California is expected in Reno.

The special train will stop here a few moments and take on the car which Nevada's delegates are to occupy.

Pension Papers.

The County clerk is busily engaged signing pension papers. These documents come in by the basket full at the end of every quarter, and the clerk runs this date mucky; for him it means all work and no compensation.

Moffatt and Neill Fight.

Considerable interest is felt in sporting circles about the outcome of the big "mill" between Al Neill and Jack Moffatt in San Francisco to-night. Neill is a 2 to 1 favorite.

The Land-Leasing Problem.

"The Third Annual Report of the National Livestock Association, which has just been issued from headquarters in Denver, will be read with interest by all those interested in the land-leasing controversy, as it contains, among other things, a complete verbatim report of the discussion had at the Fort Worth meeting on this important subject. There has been much said about the proceedings at that convention and now, for the first time, the full proceedings, are before the public to see for themselves just what was done at that meeting.

In addition to this important matter, the large volume is completely filled with papers on important livestock subjects, statistical and general information for stockmen of the greatest value, and every stockman should have a copy. These annual publications of the National Livestock Association are becoming more valuable every year and no stockman's library is complete without these volumes. They contain a perfect mass of valuable information and are fully illustrated with portraits and other subjects. In addition to the report of the convention, the volume contains an interesting appendix giving a condensed statement of the resources of the city of Denver and the advantages as a livestock and commercial center, which is exceedingly valuable to that metropolis.

Every delegate to the Fort Worth convention will receive a copy free and others can obtain them by writing to the secretary, Charles F. Martin, Denver, Colo., and enclosing 20 cents for paper bound and 25 cents for cloth bound copies.

The Fever Increases.

It's abnormal but only too true, this influx of California divorcees anxious to re-marry.

Three more couples yesterday. June is beginning with a rattling old pace—fifteen couples so far this merry month of June.

One bashful swain was interrogated as to the general opinion California divorcees had of Nevada.

"This State is all right," said he, "and it has made many a man the sworn friend of old Nevada by her leniency along certain lines."

"How do you people discover so readily that you can be married here within a year from your divorce?"

"Through the newspapers, sir; why every sheet in California has had their little squibs published about us law evaders."

And Mr. Bridegroom smiled happily as he walked away.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo. lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00.

A Big Snowfall.

The heaviest fall of snow that ever took place in England occurred in 1615. The snow commenced falling on the 10th of January, 1615, and continued every day until the 12th of March following. It covered the earth to such a depth that passengers, both horse and foot, passed over gates, hedges and walls, which had been obliterated by the white sheet. On the 12th of March it began to decrease and so by little and little consumed and wasted away till the 28th of May, for then all the heaps and drifts had disappeared except one upon Kinder scout, which lay until Whitson week.

A heavy fall occurred in Scotland in 1620, the snow falling 13 days and nights with little or no intermission. One of the heaviest falls on a single day occurred on the 21st of February, 1762, the snow in some places being from 10 to 12 feet deep.
